

MORNING LEADER.

Published by R. COWLES & CO.,
No. 142 Broadway, New York.
C. COWLES, Editor.
TUESDAY, JUNE 4, 1861.

PLAIN AND ORNAMENTAL PRINTING.
We have the most complete establishment of the kind in the city, and are prepared to execute in the most perfect manner, and at the lowest rates, all orders for printing of every description. We have also a large stock of type, and are prepared to set and galleys in the most perfect manner.

South Western Virginia.
While Eastern Virginia and north-western Virginia have been familiar to our readers from newspaper and other reports, the vast region in the south-western portion of the State has been nearly unknown. A gentleman of the highest respectability and intelligence was in the city yesterday, having been compelled for the sake of peace and safety to leave the region of the Great Kanawha, by his known Union sentiments and Yankee proclivities. He has lived at Charleston, the county seat of Kanawha county, which town is situated at the junction of Elk and Kanawha rivers, about sixty miles from the mouth of the latter at Mt. Pleasant, and about one hundred miles south-east from Wheeling. There are no railroads leading into or through that section, the public highway being down the Kanawha to the Ohio. In this country are the celebrated Kanawha Salt Works, and also the Kanawha oil region. The people have no connection or interest with Eastern Virginia, Cincinnati being their New York, and the mountains the eastern boundary of their world. The salt and oil works have caused the slaves to be in greater proportion there than elsewhere in Western Virginia, there being rather more slaves than whites in Kanawha county.

The situation of affairs there at this time is peculiar. The county grew 1400 for the other day, and yet the Unionists are in danger of insult, and even personal injury. Outside of the town people the greater part of the population are "poor whites," whose only ambition and interest is to be a good shot, to be able to drink down a pint of raw whiskey, and to have enough "hog and hominy" to eat. They are an impressionable class, who will follow any energetic leader, whichever side he may be on. The trouble now is that the Union men have a difficulty to lead the cause, as they are now discouraged rather than encouraged by the influence of the surrounding whites. There were at the time of the President's Proclamation, two good companies of militia in Charleston. These have both been mustered into the State service, although a part of their members were Union men. The advance of the Ohio troops to Wheeling has exasperated the secessionists, and by means of the four hundred State troops now collected at Charleston, they keep the Union men under. One great dread weight upon all expression of approval of the course of the government is the State pride of which we have before spoken, and which disposes the possessor of the feeling to resist any real or fancied insult to the State. The common people, who are not well informed enough to know the plan of the Administration, or to understand them if they did, are easily moved by this feeling, and under the influence of their leaders, are bitterly hostile to the presence of any foreign troops. This disposition is by no means lessened by the fact that the blockade upon their ports upon the Ohio stops all provisions, &c., except whiskey, of which an unlimited amount is received and imbibed. And while under the influence of such stimulants, the secessionists are but too ready to enforce the State law making it treason to speak against the action of the Richmond Convention or the Legislature.

The prospect before the Union men here is very dark. They know that the Administration could do no less than it has done, and yet they fear the results in their reaction. They are not safe either in their property or lives, and anxiously await the development of the hour.

Free Will Offer of the American People.
The alacrity with which the American people have responded to the call of the Government for aid, and the liberality with which the purse-purses of the North have been opened, is as remarkable as it is gratifying. It has shown that even the Yankees, with all their reputation for money getting and exact haggling, esteem the honor of their country above all personal enrichment, and are eager to lose their trade and their cash rather than one star in their country's flag. The New England farmer has joined hands with the Wall street broker, and is offering unlimited aid in behalf of a Government which traitors seek to destroy. Such a spontaneous outpouring of a nation's wealth was never seen before. Let it no more be said that "corporations have no souls," when instances by the score can be cited where manufacturing companies, banks, and towns and city corporations have come up to the call and equitably laid their hands on their treasure.

The list we give below is as nearly complete as can be readily prepared from the scattered sources of information. It will be seen that New York leads off with nearly six millions. The old Day State gives, with her glorious volunteers, nearly four millions; Ohio and Illinois give nearly three and a half millions each, while all the rest of the Northern States swell the column to its final grand total. Here is the list:

State	Amount
Connecticut	$2,100,000
Delaware	1,000,000
District of Columbia	1,000,000
Florida	1,000,000
Georgia	1,000,000
Idaho	1,000,000
Illinois	3,500,000
Indiana	1,000,000
Iowa	1,000,000
Kansas	1,000,000
Kentucky	1,000,000
Louisiana	1,000,000
Maine	1,000,000
Maryland	1,000,000
Massachusetts	1,000,000
Michigan	1,000,000
Minnesota	1,000,000
Mississippi	1,000,000
Missouri	1,000,000
Montgomery	1,000,000
New Hampshire	1,000,000
New Jersey	1,000,000
New Mexico	1,000,000
New York	5,500,000
North Carolina	1,000,000
Ohio	3,500,000
Oregon	1,000,000
Pennsylvania	1,000,000
Rhode Island	1,000,000
South Carolina	1,000,000
Tennessee	1,000,000
Vermont	1,000,000
Virginia	1,000,000
Washington	1,000,000
West Virginia	1,000,000
Wisconsin	1,000,000
Wyoming	1,000,000
Total	$21,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

The following are given as from Ohio:

City	Amount
Cincinnati	$2,000,000
Cleveland	1,000,000
Columbus	1,000,000
Dayton	1,000,000
Franklin	1,000,000
Hamilton	1,000,000
London	1,000,000
Paris	1,000,000
Philadelphia	1,000,000
Pittsburgh	1,000,000
Portland	1,000,000
San Francisco	1,000,000
Seattle	1,000,000
St. Louis	1,000,000
St. Paul	1,000,000
Union City	1,000,000
Waco	1,000,000
Wichita	1,000,000
Yonkers	1,000,000
Total	$13,300,000

TELEGRAPHIC.

THE REMOVAL OF GEN. HANNEY.
It is intimated by St. Louis letters, which are very reliable, that the removal of Gen. Hanney from the command in Missouri, which has been, we cannot say, but we are confident that the bazaar of the Government, which was made up between the General and the commander of the rebel State forces, was not looked upon as a very brilliant stroke of policy in the old soldier. As we endeavored to show a few days since, it secured peace and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement was made public, the Union men of St. Louis have been indignant, the Union soldiers of the State fearful, the rebel troops, which Gen. Price was to disperse, rampant and disobedient, and the rebel Governor and his crew in high feather that they had secured a peace, and a "letting alone" for the rebel troops, while the Union men and families of the State had to suffer from it. It was a bargain in which the rebel was the victor, and the Union soldier. Since that agreement